Local CPA Firm Focuses on Continuing Education.

Angela Shea, a partner at Lebanon based Garcia Garman & Shea, CPA's, recently attended the "Divorce Conference" presented by the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants. The conference covered the impact of the Affordable Care and Taxpayer Relief Acts on family law calculations, pension distributions in divorce, business valuation, forensic issues, and an annual update on divorce appellate cases.

"Conferences such as this help us to help our current and future clients, as well as our attorney friends, plan and consider the tax implications of divorce and support decisions. Divorce and support issues are never easy. Our goal is to make sure all the parties negotiate in good faith, with full knowledge that decisions do have tax implications," notes Ms. Shea.

Garcia Garman & Shea, with five CPAs and a support staff for area clients, is headquartered in Lebanon with another office in Lancaster. For more information, call 274-5600 or visit www.g2scpa.com. The firm has been serving Lebanon and surrounding county business and individual clients for over 50 years.
